POSCO Asia Fellowship Award Ceremony at Indus University

Indus University and POSCO TJ Park Foundation signed an agreement to foster promising young leaders in Asia to promote understanding of Korea and Asia. As a part of this agreement, POSCO TJ Park Foundation awarded POSCO Asia Fellowship of US $500.00 each annually to ten promising students of Indus University. This fellowship is a positive leap towards a wide range of academic & other activities with the aim of strengthening ties between Asia and Korea.

This year Indus University recommended eligible candidates for scholarship based on the selection standards and procedures established by the varsity. The Foundation then evaluated the list of students for final selection of POSCO Asia Fellowship 2016 held at university campus on 30th November'16. The beneficiaries of this fellowship shall participate in events organized by POSCO TJ Park Foundation such as seminars/workshops in IU or across the state.

POSCO Asia Fellowship Award ceremony was graced by Mr. Kim, Dae Bum, the Managing Director of POSCO TJ Park Foundation accompanied by Mr. Yangsu Lim, General Manager; Mr. Abhinav Singh, HR-Admin Manager; Ms. Sujin Oh, the Coordinator; Ms. Clarissa Fernandez, Senior Executive from POSCO IAPC.

The President of Indus University Dr. Nagesh Bhandari welcomed the dignitaries from POSCO TJ Park Foundation followed by a brief summary of procedure and criteria by Dr. S. Tandon, Director IITE. Ten eligible students received POSCO Asia Fellowship Award at the hands of Dr. Nagesh Bhandari and Mr. Kim, Dae Bum. Maj. Gen. Dr. S.S. Dasaka, Executive President IU congratulated students on this deserving feat and candidates reciprocated their gratitude through words of appreciation on their part. This award is in recognition of outstanding scholastic achievement and dedication to knowledge of the students. Such collaboration helps to nurture next generation talents through various scholarships, fellowships, grants and training.

VC Indamer visits Indus University

Mr. Yogendra, Vice President, Indamer recently visited Indus University campus. Indamer is one of the largest DGCA approved MRO of India, which has maintained around 25-30 Helicopters and 50-55 fixed wing aircrafts. Mr. Yogendra appreciated the training program, arrangements of aircraft components & equipment, task wise practical schedule, lab set up and also the teaching methodology. He was enthusiastic about discussing the subjects, training program and students' performance in the university. He appreciated the Head of the Department and faculty members who have been training students at WIIA, as many of the pass out students are working with Indamer and delivering to the best of the capabilities.

He has also committed to absorb 20 to 26 of our students for training at different base locations of Indamer from January 2017. The WIIA Pvt. Ltd. is in process of carrying out inspections of Magneto, Alternator, Startor and Battery as soon as they receive the permission for the same. As this facility is not available at present in the city, its establishment will lead to a healthy partnership between Indus University and Indamer. ■

Eloquence meets Confidence at the TOI Public Speaking Contest

In oratory they say the will must predominate and it is this innate will to excel at what he does best made Gaurav Pandya (7th Semester Metallurgy) from Indus University stand among Top 20 finalists from the city of Ahmedabad at The Times of India Public Speaking Contest held on Friday 25th November'16.

Eloquence met confidence on this grand stage of Gujarat's biggest competition of this nature. Of the 150-odd participants shortlisted for the second round of Group Discussion, top 20 were selected for the gala event in the evening at TGB

Ahmedabad. Each speaker got three minutes each to speak on topics that were given to them just minutes before they took the stage. Gaurav's presence of mind and wit underscored the point he drove home in his three minute speech on the topic 'Bold reforms are bitter pills for the nation'. The house was full, cheering, encouraging, and on many occasions rising to give a standing ovation to all the speakers. ■

Meeting Etiquette For All

Courtesy: Ms. Meeta Agarwal

Admin Coordinator,
Indus University

There is a specific etiquette for team leaders which should be followed to keep up a professional appearance, are as follows:

RSVP

Team leaders may get dozens of meeting invitations per week. Depending on how many people or departments you head, you will likely be asked to sit in various meetings with department heads, clients, etc.

While you may be overwhelmed by the invitations and may feel that you are not needed in all of the meetings, you still need to RSVP to say whether or not you will be coming. Not doing so and simply popping in, or not coming when you are expected, can make a meeting run off track.

Prepare

Although you may have a lot on your plate, you need to be fully prepared for each individual meeting you attend. This should involve receiving a meeting agenda, reading it, and compiling information in order to be fully caught up at the meeting. If you are not sure what is going to be discussed, you may either be lost at the actual meeting, or will stall time with questions that should have been asked prior to the meeting.

Be Respectful

Although you are the leader of your team, you should still be respectful in meetings. Try not to come in late, stay until the end, and allow others to speak. There are times when you will need to run out of the meeting, or may be required to interject if someone is running off track, but you can do so respectfully rather than rudely.

Follow Up

A leader's work is not done once the meeting is over as it is up to them to follow up on what was discussed. If an important project was implemented in the meeting, you need to make sure everyone really understood what needs to be done, and is doing their part. You can send your team summary or follow up notes, and weekly reminders with checklists to keep on track.

Team Leaders are often bogged down with meetings, but they need to remain professional and follow etiquette, regardless. ■

Poem on WAR

By: Vivek Singh

Semester - 1st

Mechanical Engineering

All that is a reality, that history remembers the war and forgets blood.

Man creature of instincts and impulses, incapable to see the other face of coin tossed in life.

I wish not to have evolution of homosapiens as coin counts the grain and luxury.

War heads in direction of rumours and humours which in turn fail

Insomniac mountains guard the world of mankind.

I saw the eyes with flames of fire for revenge of unknown reason

The lost-blind eye saw the sky as stars fail to lighten, casting deep shadows on unfathomable secret seas.

I love the skin deep silence of walls and nerves as I saw the body lying frigid with rigid expression.

When the lines of harshness and goodness sublimes, pride and harmony both bestowed down the feet

Only eternity and experience will reveal darker secrets of human civilization.

I know everything, yet I know nothing about mankind.
